SchoolSAFE enables a two-way radio connection between first responders and school officials during an emergency. This connection can be switched on and off immediately by public safety with the SchoolSAFE user interface. The comprehensive training program partners with schools to provide user-specific training in emergency communications management, empowering community partnerships with first responders. The program is also Colorado's SAFER Grant compliant, providing hardware, software, and training to each school district. The SAFER Grant provides true radio interoperability for first responders and school districts, funding the state-wide initiative. Over 400 installations have been completed throughout the state.
